

2023 Padres in Review

Collin Trivasos

A Season of Mourning

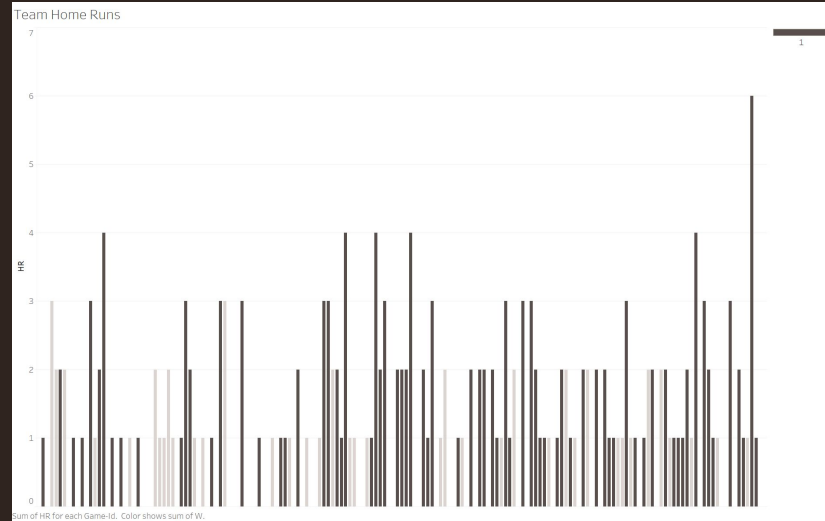

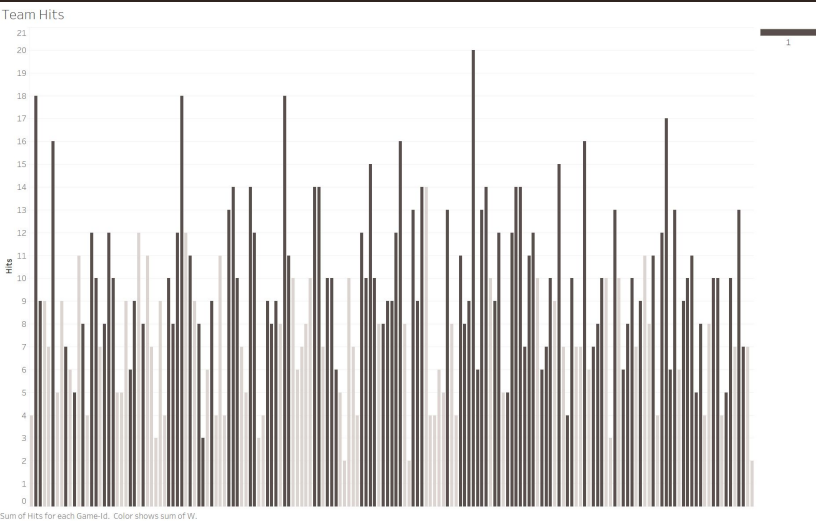

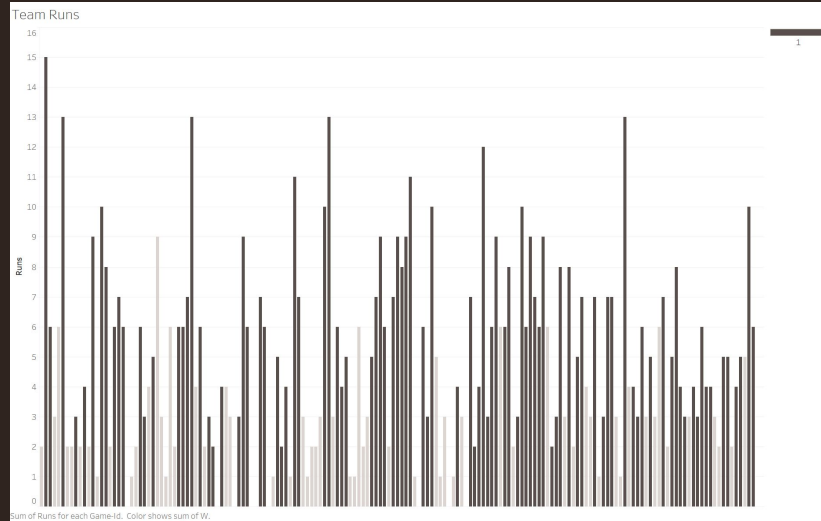

SO CLOSE!!!!

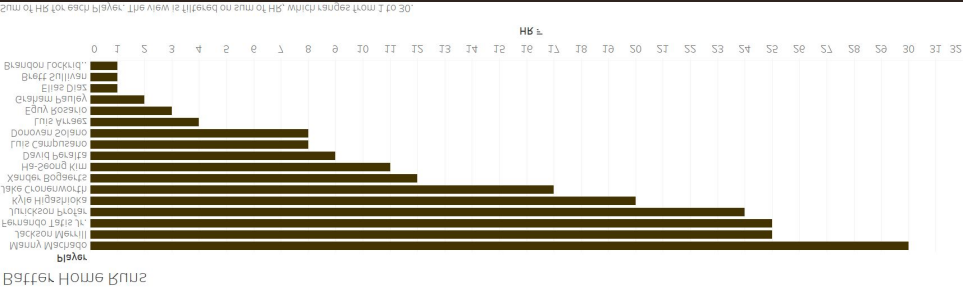

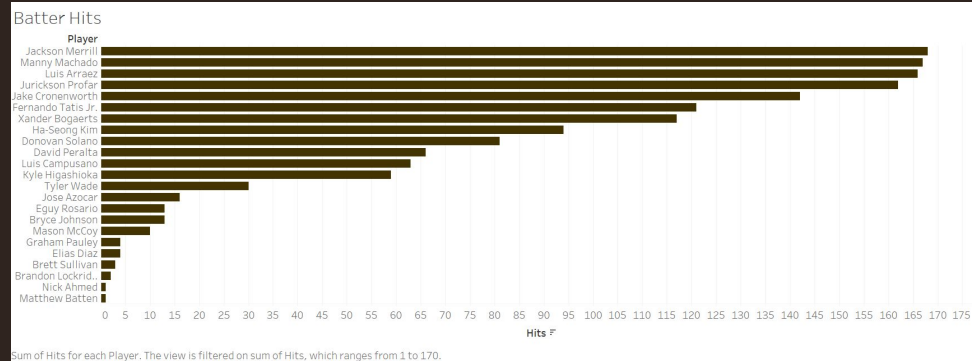

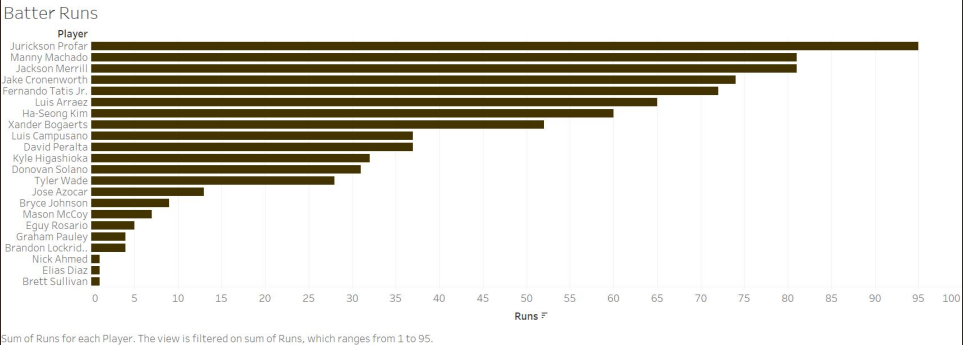

By the #s

- 93-69
- 2nd NL West
- 1,235 Hits
- 760 Runs
- 192 Home Runs
- 599 Runs Against
- 1,514 Strike Outs

Offensive Production

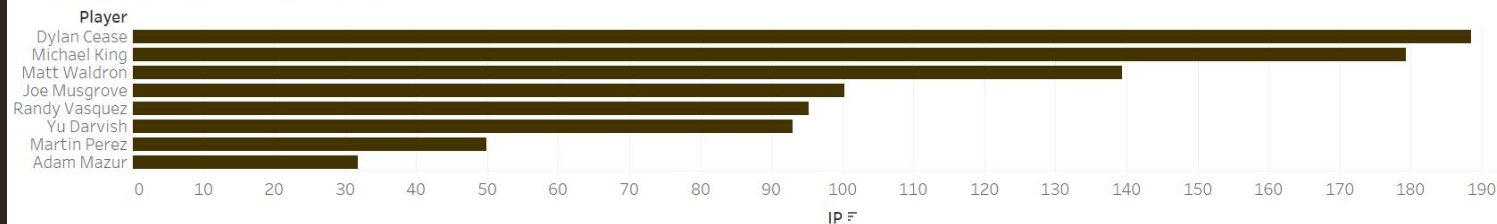

Individual Statistics

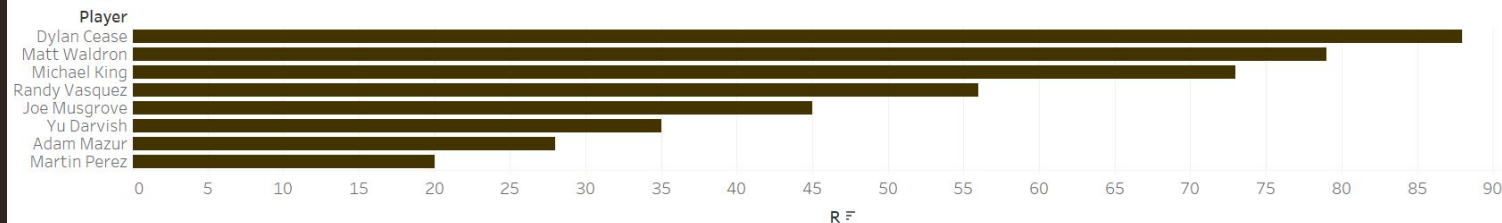

Starting Pitchers

Starting Pitcher Innings Pitched

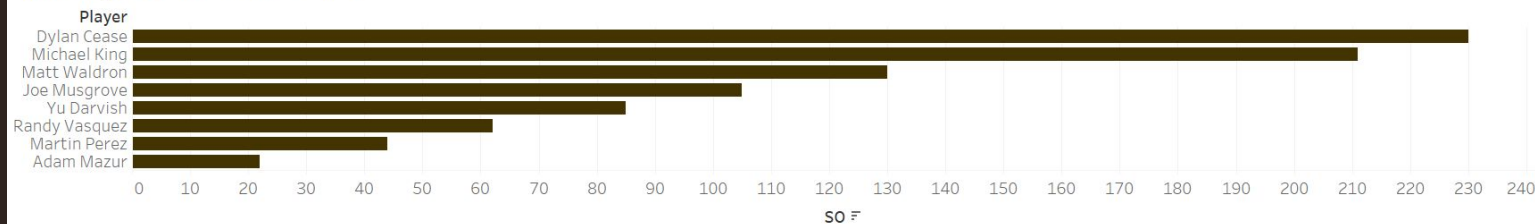

Sum of IP for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps YES.

Starting Pitcher Runs

Sum of R for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps YES.

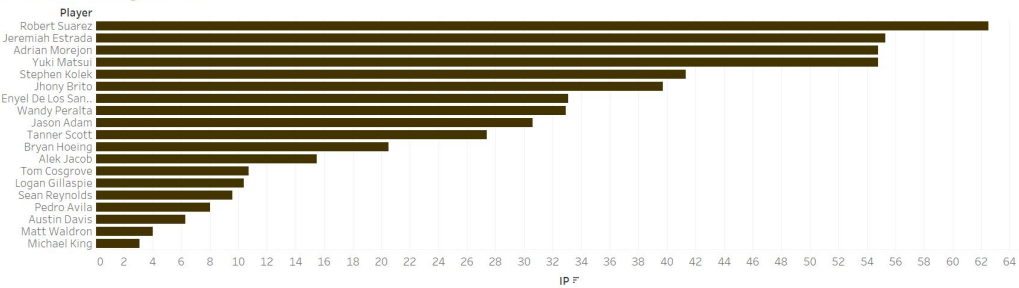

Starting Pitcher Strike Outs

Sum of SO for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps YES.

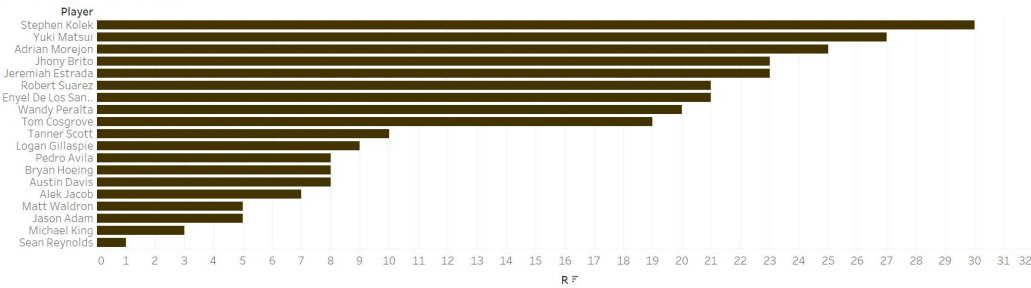

Bullpen

Relievers Innings Pitched

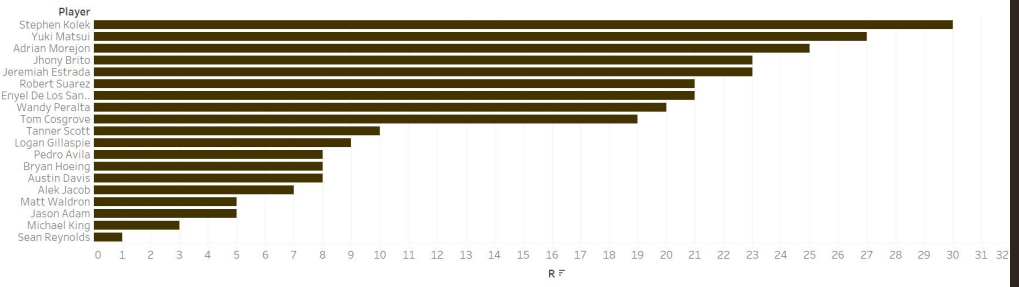

Sum of IP for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps Null. The view is filtered on sum of IP, which ranges from 1.00 to 62.50.

Relievers Strike Runs

Sum of R for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps Null. The view is filtered on sum of R, which ranges from 1 to 30.

Relievers Strike Runs

Sum of R for each Player. The data is filtered on Starting Pitcher, which keeps Null. The view is filtered on sum of R, which ranges from 1 to 30.

Looking to 2025 - What We Need

- Another Chance
 - We had the eventual World Series Champion Dodgers on the ropes
- A healthy season
 - Losing two starting pitchers in Joe Musgrove and Yu Darvish, as well as infielder Ha-Seong Kim, to injuries hurt us
- Stronger Bullpen
 - An inconsistent bullpen gave us trouble, especially towards the end of the season and in playoffs
- Everyone else back
 - Bringing the rest of the squad back is crucial to building on the success of 2024